Program Overview

The Master of Science in Biblical Psychology advances the integration of psychology and theology through study of psychopathology, neuroscience, research, and religious experience. Graduates can bring psychological insight to ministry, education, and faith-based programs.

How EACU Is Different

Students study the mind and behavior through Scripture and science side by side, asking what each reveals about the human soul. Rather than choosing one over the other, students weigh the research, the biblical text, and the ancient understanding of body, soul, and spirit, and draw their own conclusions.

At the graduate level, students weigh the biblical text, ancient witnesses, research, and later interpretation side by side, then build and defend their own position with scholarly rigor while remaining grounded in the foundation of truth.

Required in every EACU degree: Biblical Interpretation (Rightly Dividing the Word), Biblical Finance and Stewardship, and Biblical Mindset and Mental Health. Every course is built with visual, auditory, reading and writing, and hands-on learning.

Please note: This degree studies psychology from a biblical perspective. It does not lead to state licensure or professional certification, including as a psychologist, counselor, or therapist.

Program Outcomes

1. Integrate psychology and theology at an advanced level.
2. Recognize psychopathology and provide appropriate spiritual care and referral.
3. Design and interpret behavioral research.
4. Explain the neuroscience of emotion in light of Scripture.
5. Complete and defend graduate-level research.

Where This Degree Can Lead
